

Archaeological evidence shows that crooked teeth have been a problem since the time of neanderthal man.

